Summary: In the 23rd century, Earth faces the problem of overpopulation so Galaxy Garrison sends several groups of explorers, to help find a new planet, suitable for inhabitation. However, the Drules are also looking as well, as their home planet is on the verge of destruction. The Voltron Force must now face the task of finding and exploring as well as defend themselves and planets against the forces of the Drule Empire. With each planet they pass on, the harder for both the Drules and the Voltron Force to find one they could call a second home. Can they work together in the end for a common goal?
